Acknowledgements:

The development of the Multinational Time Use Study (MTUS) spanned several decades, involved numerous research assistants, and various sources of funding. The authors of this User's Guide are particularly grateful to our statistical partners without whom MTUS would not have been possible. We especially appreciate their willingness to share the datasets with us and to answer our numerous questions about them.

It would be impossible to list all of them. Among our most recent collaborators, we are grateful to Michael Bittman (Australia), Jens Bonke (Denmark), Koen Breedveld (Netherlands), Françoise Dumontier (France), Manfred Ehling (Germany), Andrew Harvey (Canada), Duncan Ironmonger (Australia), Glenn Moss (South Africa), Iiris Niemi (Finland), Hannu Pääkkönen (Finland), John Robinson (United States), Klas Rydenstam (Sweden), Endre Sik (Hungary), Faye Soupourmas (Australia), Oriel Sullivan (Israel), and Odd Frank Vaage (Norway).

In addition, we are grateful to the following national statistical agencies: the Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS), the Austrian Central Statistical Office, the French National Institute of Statistics and Economic Studies (INSEE), the German Federal Statistical Office, the Italian National Statistical Institute (ISTAT), Statistics Canada, Statistics Finland, Statistics Norway, Statistical Office of the Republic of Slovenia, Statistics South Africa, Statistics Sweden, and the United Kingdom Office for National Statistics (ONS).

We are also grateful to the following funding agencies which have supported our research program over the years: the Canada Research Chair Program, the Canadian Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council, the Economic and Social Research Council (ESRC) (England), the European Foundation for the Improvement of Living and Working Conditions (EFILWC) (Ireland), the Office for National Statistics (ONS) (UK), the University of Essex (UK), the University of Melbourne (Australia), and The Joseph Rowntree Memorial Trust (UK).

The authors of this User's Guide take full responsibilities for omissions and errors.
