This year's conference theme is
"New Challenges in Time Use: Wellbeing and Social Policy"

The conference invites abstracts for sessions that deal with any aspect of time use. Sessions on wellbeing and policy will have prominence.

The deadline for submission of a theme for a session (or stream of sessions) is 18 January, 2016. We will consider any time use relevant theme, but priority will be given to themes related to quality of life, policy making, or comparative research.

Organisers of selected sessions will contribute to:
- arranging papers and sessions in their theme (this may include any relevant abstracts submitted to the conference in addition to those recruited by the session organisers);
- arranging chairs who will introduce speakers and ensure sessions run on time;
- inviting additional participants to join the themed session.

The conference organisers reserve the right to request that people proposing similar themes co-operate when coordinating their sessions. Organisers of selected sessions will contribute to arranging sessions, and organise chairs of sessions in their theme.

Please use the attached form for you session submission.

Please send your session proposal and any inquiries to iatur2016seoul@gmail.com

Notification for theme of session will be communicated by 30 January 2016 via e-mail and announced on the conference website.

Any authors wishing to contribute papers to a theme can submit their abstracts for consideration at any time – authors need not wait for confirmation of session acceptance.
